DIGITAL RESOURCE CENTER OF KBHE

A digital resource center in a library refers to a collection of digital materials, resources, and tools that can be accessed online. It serves as a hub of digital information and technology services that support research, learning, and creativity for library users. The digital resources available in a library's digital resource center can include e-books, audiobooks, electronic journals and databases, and other digital content. The center may also provide access to specialized software, research tools, and other resources that are not easily available elsewhere. Overall, a digital resource center can greatly enhance the value of a library by expanding access to a wealth of digital resources and providing a wide range of services that meet the needs of modern library users.

CORNERS OF SPECIAL COLLECTION

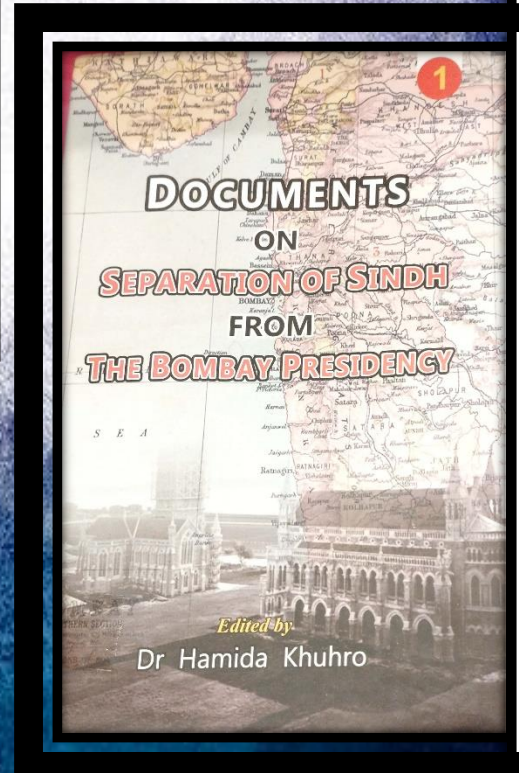

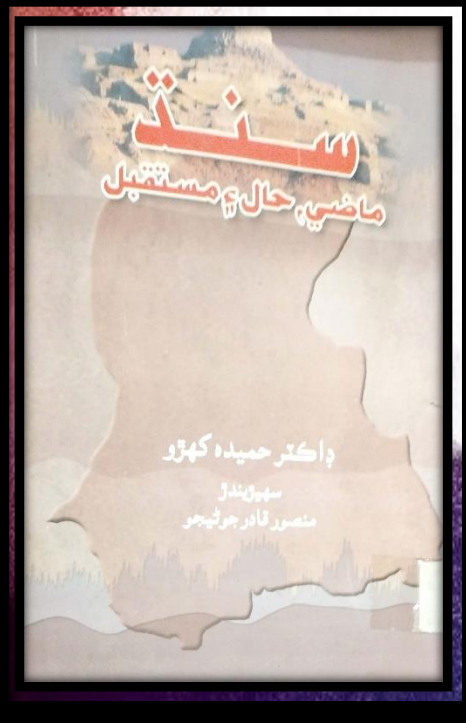

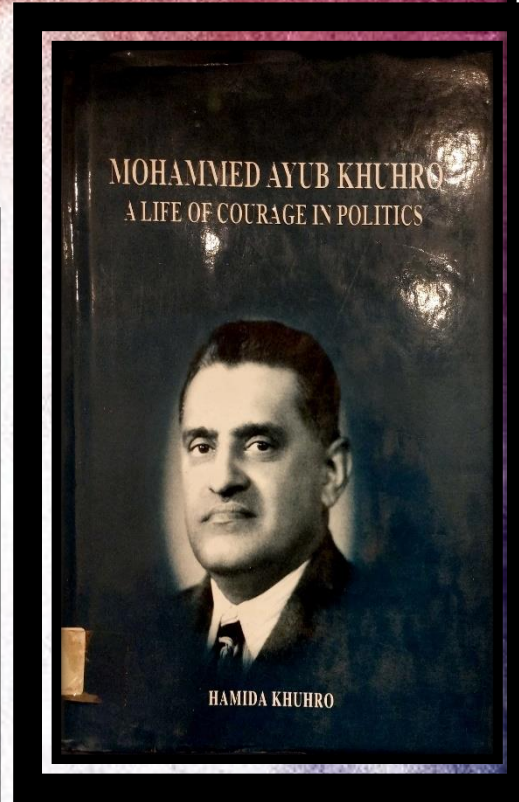

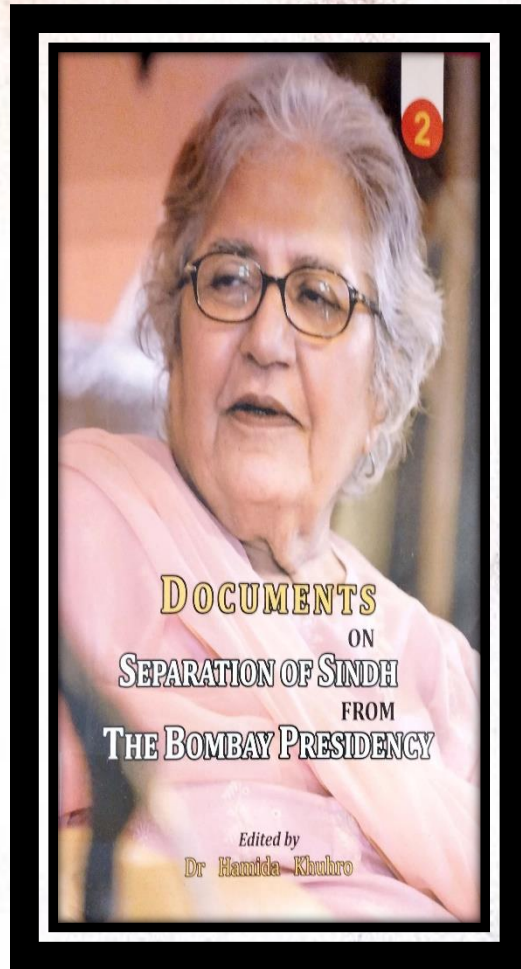

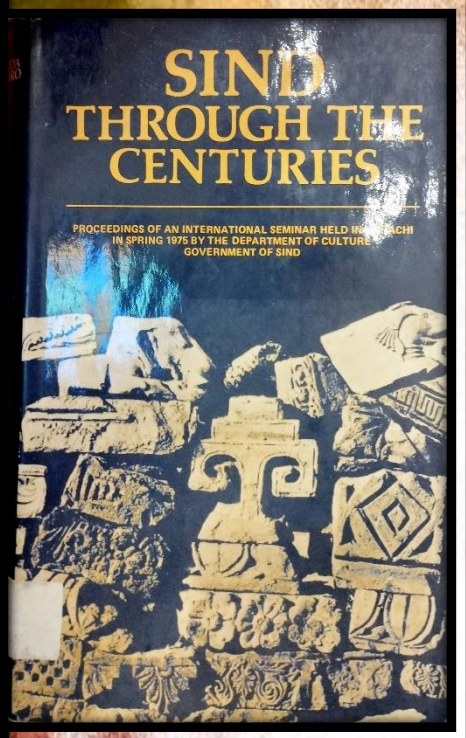

Books serve as a ladder to knowledge and to development of a peaceful and progressive society. The library was fortunate to receive personal collection of books of renowned educationist of Sindh Taj Sahrai Memon & Dr. Hamida Khoro. The collection of books received as a donation covers a range of subjects. To commemorate this valuable gift, we decided to dedicate a room in order to make Dr. Hamida Khoro Corner and Taj Sahrai Corner.

DR. HAMIDA KHUHRO CORNER

Dr. Hamida Khuhro, a renowned historian and former Sindh education minister, was born on August 13, 1936, in Larkana, Sindh. She received her education from Larkana and later studied in the UK, earning a degree from Cambridge University and a PhD in South Asian History from Oxford University. After returning to Pakistan, she joined Karachi University as a professor in the History Department and later became chairperson of the Pakistan Studies Department at the University of Sindh, Jamshoro. Khuhro later joined the Sindh National Alliance and became a member of the Pakistan Muslim League in 1993. She served as the provincial minister for education twice, and as Sindh's minister for education and literacy in 1990 and 2004. Khuhro was the daughter of controversial chief minister Muhammad Ayoub Khuhro, who was criticized for not resisting the formation of One Unit. She passed away at the age of 81 on February 12, 2017.

TAJ SAHRAI CORNER

Taj Sahrai, a Pakistani author and educationist, was born on September 14, 1921, in Shikarpur. He shifted to Dadu city and served as a teacher and researcher, focusing on quality education and research for the people of District Dadu. Sahrai founded Talib ul Moula High School Dadu and played a leading role in establishing various organizations, including Allama I I Kazi Library Dadu, Dadu Educational Society, Dadu Historical Society, Qalandar Adabi Conference, and Sindh Museum. He was an excellent poet and authored several books in Sindhi and English languages, including his notable contribution, Lake Manchar. He was awarded the Presidential National Award of Pride of Performance in 1990. Taj Sahrai is recognized as the archaeological pioneer of Sindh, exploring and circulating scientific information about ancient Indus Valley Civilization in the Dadu District. He was also a great human, prolific writer, poet, and teacher. Sahrai died on October 28, 2002, due to a heart attack and was buried in Lal Hindi graveyard in Dadu city.
